PART A — QUESTIONS

Section: ELAR

Type: mcq

Focus: Reading

Prompt:

Read the passage and answer the question.

When Riverside Community College opened its new tutoring center, some students expected a quiet room where tutors would simply correct homework. Instead, the center was designed around a different idea: students learn more when they explain their thinking, identify their own errors, and practice strategies they can use later. Tutors are trained not to give answers immediately. A tutor might ask a student to reread a problem, define an unfamiliar term, or explain why a particular paragraph seems confusing. At first, this approach frustrates some students, especially those who arrive shortly before an assignment is due. However, the center's director argues that tutoring should build independence rather than create dependence. After the first semester, the college surveyed students who used the center at least three times. Most reported that they felt more confident starting assignments on their own, even when they still needed help finishing them.

Which statement best expresses the central idea of the passage?

- A) Riverside Community College should hire more tutors so students can receive faster help.
- B) The tutoring center emphasizes student independence by encouraging students to think through problems.
- C) Students at Riverside Community College usually wait too long before starting their assignments.
- D) The tutoring center is most useful for students who already understand their assignments.

Prompt:

Read the passage and answer the question.

The city library recently began lending mobile internet hotspots to residents who have library cards. The program began after librarians noticed that many students used the library computers to complete homework but could not continue working after the building closed. Some residents also needed internet access to apply for jobs, attend telehealth appointments, or communicate with public agencies. Although the library purchased only fifty hotspots at first, the waiting list grew within two weeks.

What is the main purpose of the passage?

- A) To argue that libraries should replace printed books with digital services
- B) To describe a library program created to expand internet access
- C) To compare different types of internet service available in the city
- D) To explain why residents prefer using library computers at night

Prompt:

Read the passage and answer the question.

Marta had practiced her presentation until she could recite every line without looking at her notes. Yet when she stood in front of the class, the first sentence sounded stiff and memorized. She paused, looked at the photo on her opening slide, and remembered why she had chosen the topic in the first place. Instead of repeating the exact words she had rehearsed, she began by telling the story behind the image. Her classmates leaned forward.

What can reasonably be inferred about Marta?

- A) She decided not to complete the assignment.
- B) She became more effective when she spoke more naturally.
- C) She forgot the main point of her presentation.
- D) She wished she had selected a different topic.

Prompt:

Read the passage and answer the question.

A campus garden may seem like a small project, but it can serve several purposes at once. Biology students can use the garden to study soil quality and pollination. Culinary students can learn how herbs and vegetables are grown before they reach a kitchen. Students who simply need a quiet break can volunteer for short shifts between classes. For these reasons, a garden should be seen not as decoration but as a practical learning space.

Which sentence best states the author's claim?

- A) A campus garden can provide educational and personal benefits.
- B) Biology students should be required to work in campus gardens.
- C) Culinary programs are more useful when they include outdoor activities.
- D) A campus garden is too expensive for most colleges to maintain.

Prompt:

Read the passage and answer the question.

During the first week of training, new employees at the warehouse shadow an experienced worker. They learn how to scan inventory, label damaged boxes, and report safety concerns. The company could provide a manual that explains these steps, but managers have found that watching the procedures in context prevents many early mistakes. New employees still receive the manual, but it functions more as a reference than as the main source of instruction.

What relationship does the passage establish between shadowing and the manual?

- A) Shadowing is presented as the primary training method, while the manual supports later review.
- B) The manual is presented as more effective because it contains every company rule.
- C) Shadowing is presented as unnecessary once employees learn how to scan inventory.
- D) The manual and shadowing are presented as unrelated parts of the hiring process.

Focus: Reading

Prompt:

Read the two passages and answer the question.

Passage 1:

Some colleges are replacing printed parking permits with digital license-plate registration. The change saves paper, reduces mailing costs, and allows students to update vehicle information online. Because campus security can scan plates electronically, students no longer need to wait in line for a physical permit.

Passage 2:

Digital parking systems may be convenient, but they can also create problems. If a student borrows a family member's car and forgets to update the registration, the student may receive a ticket even after paying for parking access. A physical permit is easier to move from one approved vehicle to another.

How do the passages differ in their views of digital parking registration?

- A) Passage 1 supports it as efficient, while Passage 2 warns that it may cause practical problems.
- B) Passage 1 rejects it as too expensive, while Passage 2 praises it as inexpensive.
- C) Passage 1 focuses on student privacy, while Passage 2 focuses on campus security.
- D) Passage 1 argues that permits are unnecessary, while Passage 2 argues that students should not drive.

The historian's article does not claim that the factory strike succeeded immediately. In fact, the first vote after the strike changed little for the workers. However, the article argues that the strike mattered because it brought local newspaper attention to unsafe conditions. Within a year, city inspectors began visiting factories more frequently, and reform groups used the workers' testimony in public meetings.

Which statement best summarizes the passage?

- A) The strike failed because the workers did not receive higher pay right away.
- B) The strike was important because it helped draw attention to unsafe factory conditions.
- C) The strike caused city inspectors to stop visiting local factories.
- D) The strike was organized by newspaper editors and reform groups.

In her review of the documentary, Laila praises the film's interviews but criticizes its pacing. She notes that several scenes repeat the same point about water conservation without adding new evidence. Still, she recommends the film for environmental science classes because its strongest sections show how local choices can affect regional water supplies.

What is Laila's tone toward the documentary?

- A) Completely dismissive
- B) Generally favorable but qualified
- C) Confused and uncertain
- D) Hostile and sarcastic

A study group can help students stay accountable, but only if the group has a clear plan. When members meet without goals, the session often turns into casual conversation. A useful study group identifies topics before meeting, assigns each member a task, and ends by reviewing what still needs attention. Structure does not make the group less friendly; it makes the time more valuable.

Which evidence from the passage best supports the idea that study groups need planning?

- A) Study groups can help students stay accountable.

- B) A useful group identifies topics, assigns tasks, and reviews remaining needs.
- C) Students often enjoy talking with classmates.
- D) Structure does not make a group less friendly.

Before the invention of mechanical refrigeration, ice harvesting was an important winter industry in many northern regions. Workers cut blocks of ice from frozen lakes and stored them in insulated buildings packed with sawdust. Months later, the ice could be shipped to cities where households and businesses used it to preserve food. The process was labor-intensive, but it allowed people to keep food cool long before electric refrigerators became common.

Which sentence best explains the purpose of ice harvesting?

- A) It allowed people to preserve food before electric refrigeration was widely available.
- B) It encouraged people to move from cities to northern regions.
- C) It replaced the need for insulated buildings in warm climates.
- D) It made frozen lakes safer for winter travel.

Professor Allen tells students that office hours are not only for emergencies. Students can use that time to ask about a confusing reading, discuss a paper idea, or learn how to study for the next exam. Many students avoid office hours because they assume they must have a serious problem before attending. Professor Allen wants to change that assumption.

What is the author's purpose in the passage?

- A) To persuade students that office hours can be useful before problems become serious
- B) To explain why professors should cancel office hours during busy weeks
- C) To show that students should solve every academic problem alone
- D) To compare office hours with tutoring centers

The memo announced that the office would begin a "clean desk" policy the following month. Employees were asked to store documents in locked drawers at the end of each day and avoid leaving customer information on desks overnight. The policy was not intended to make workspaces look identical. Rather, it was designed to reduce the risk that private information could be seen by visitors or misplaced during evening cleaning.

What is the main reason for the new policy?

- A) To make every employee's desk look the same
- B) To protect sensitive customer information
- C) To reduce the amount of paper used by the office
- D) To help evening cleaners finish their work faster

Read the passage and answer the question.

(1) Our campus should create a tool-lending program for students who need basic equipment for class projects. (2) Many students buy items such as calculators, safety goggles, measuring tapes, or small audio recorders for a single assignment and then never use them again. (3) A lending program would allow students to borrow these items for short periods instead of purchasing them. (4) The program could begin with donations from departments and student organizations. (5) For example, the biology department may have extra goggles from previous lab sections, and the media club may have unused microphones. (6) The library already checks out laptops, so it has experience tracking borrowed materials. (7) Some students enjoy studying in the library because it is quiet. (8) By expanding the library's lending system to include basic tools, the college could reduce student costs and make project-based classes more accessible.

Which sentence should be removed because it does not support the main idea of the passage?

TSIA2-ES1-001

Section: Essay

Type: essay

Prompt:

Some students believe that colleges should require all first-year students to take a course on time management, study habits, and campus resources. Supporters argue that such a course can help students adjust to college expectations and avoid common mistakes. Others believe that students should be free to choose only courses directly related to their degree programs and should learn these skills on their own.

Assignment:

Write an essay of 300–600 words in which you develop your point of view on the issue presented in the passage. Support your position with reasoning and examples from your reading, studies, experience, or observations.

Model Guidance:

A strong response should clearly state a position on whether colleges should require a first-year success course. The essay should stay focused on that position, organize ideas logically, and develop the argument with specific reasons and examples. Strong responses may consider possible objections, explain why the writer's view is more persuasive, and use varied sentence structure. The writing should demonstrate control of Standard English grammar, usage, and punctuation.

Rubric:

Score 8: The essay presents a clear, thoughtful position; develops ideas fully with specific and well-chosen examples; is logically organized; shows strong control of language and conventions; and demonstrates mature critical thinking.

Score 7: The essay presents a clear position; develops ideas well with relevant examples; is organized effectively; shows good language control; and contains only minor errors.

Score 6: The essay presents a reasonable position; develops ideas adequately; has a clear organizational plan; shows general control of language; and may contain some errors that do not interfere with meaning.

Score 5: The essay presents a position but may develop ideas unevenly; organization is apparent but may be basic; language control is adequate; and errors may occasionally distract.

Score 4: The essay shows a limited or unclear position; development is thin or repetitive; organization may be weak; and errors may interfere with clarity.

Score 3: The essay attempts to address the issue but has minimal development, weak organization, and frequent language errors.

Score 2: The essay is seriously underdeveloped, poorly organized, or difficult to follow because of major errors.

Score 1: The essay shows little ability to develop a response and may be extremely brief, confusing, or mostly unrelated.

Score 0: blank, off-topic, too short, incoherent, or non-English response

PART B — ANSWER KEY + EXPLANATIONS

TSIA2-E1-001 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The tutoring center emphasizes student independence by encouraging students to think through problems. — Explanation: The passage explains that the center’s purpose is to help students develop strategies and confidence rather than simply receive answers.

TSIA2-E1-002 — Correct: C — Correct Answer: Tutors do not immediately provide answers to students’ questions. — Explanation: The passage states that tutors are trained not to give answers immediately, which can frustrate students who expect quick corrections.

TSIA2-E1-003 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: methods for solving problems — Explanation: In context, strategies are approaches students can use later to complete assignments and solve problems independently.

TSIA2-E1-004 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: Tutors ask students to explain their thinking and identify errors. — Explanation: This detail directly supports the idea that tutoring should help students become independent learners.

TSIA2-E1-005 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: To describe a library program created to expand internet access — Explanation: The passage explains why the library began lending hotspots and who benefits from the program.

TSIA2-E1-006 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: She became more effective when she spoke more naturally. — Explanation: Marta’s classmates become more engaged after she stops reciting and begins speaking from a personal connection to the topic.

TSIA2-E1-007 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: A campus garden can provide educational and personal benefits. — Explanation: The passage claims that a garden can support academic learning and give students a quiet volunteer opportunity.

TSIA2-E1-008 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Shadowing is presented as the primary training method, while the manual supports later review. — Explanation: Managers rely on shadowing for instruction, while the manual serves as a reference.

TSIA2-E1-009 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Passage 1 supports it as efficient, while Passage 2 warns that it may cause practical problems. — Explanation: Passage 1 emphasizes convenience and cost savings, while Passage 2 points out potential difficulties for students who use different vehicles.

TSIA2-E1-010 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The strike was important because it helped draw attention to unsafe factory conditions. — Explanation: The passage says the strike mattered because it brought newspaper attention and helped lead to inspections and reform efforts.

TSIA2-E1-011 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: Generally favorable but qualified — Explanation: Laila praises some parts of the film and recommends it, but she also criticizes its pacing.

TSIA2-E1-012 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: A useful group identifies topics, assigns tasks, and reviews remaining needs. — Explanation: This sentence gives concrete examples of the planning that makes study groups effective.

TSIA2-E1-013 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: It allowed people to preserve food before electric refrigeration was widely available. — Explanation: The passage explains that harvested ice helped households and businesses keep food cool before electric refrigerators became common.

TSIA2-E1-014 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: To persuade students that office hours can be useful before problems become serious — Explanation: The passage explains that students can use office hours for many purposes, not only emergencies.

TSIA2-E1-015 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: To protect sensitive customer information — Explanation: The memo says the policy is designed to reduce the risk that private information could be seen or misplaced.

TSIA2-E1-016 — Correct: D — Correct Answer: Sentence 7 — Explanation: Sentence 7 discusses studying in the library, which does not support the argument for a tool-lending program.

TSIA2-E1-017 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: A checkout period of one week would give students enough time to complete most short assignments. — Explanation: This sentence adds a practical detail that supports how the lending program could work.

TSIA2-E1-018 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: Similarly, — Explanation: Sentence 6 adds another related example of the library's ability to lend materials, so "Similarly" shows the connection.

TSIA2-E1-019 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: A lending program would allow students to borrow these items briefly instead of buying them. — Explanation: This revision is concise, clear, and keeps the meaning of the original sentence.

TSIA2-E1-020 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The advisor reviewed my schedule and noticed that I had registered for two classes that meet at the same time. — Explanation: This revision correctly joins the two related actions without creating a comma splice.

TSIA2-E1-021 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: Before the workshop begins, participants should sign in at the front desk. — Explanation: An introductory dependent clause should be followed by a comma.

TSIA2-E1-022 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: therefore — Explanation: The second clause shows a result of the instructor's detailed feedback, so "therefore" is the best transition.

TSIA2-E1-023 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Because the survey included only twelve students, the results were not enough to prove a campus-wide trend. — Explanation: This sentence clearly and correctly explains the cause-and-effect relationship.

TSIA2-E1-024 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: Each of the students was responsible for submitting a lab report. — Explanation: "Each" is singular, so it requires the singular verb "was."

TSIA2-E1-025 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The course requires a final project, which may be a research paper, a presentation, or a community interview. — Explanation: This combines the sentences smoothly and clearly without a comma splice.

TSIA2-E1-026 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Therefore, meeting with an advisor can help students make informed academic decisions. — Explanation: This conclusion follows logically from the paragraph's explanation of how advisors help students.

TSIA2-E1-027 — Correct: C — Correct Answer: The committee discussed the new attendance policy at the meeting, and it will vote on the proposal next week. — Explanation: Two independent clauses can be joined with a comma and the coordinating conjunction "and."
