Prompt:

Read the passage and answer the question.

The public library's digitization project began with a box of old neighborhood newsletters found in a storage closet. At first, the newsletters seemed too ordinary to preserve: they listed bake sales, school events, street repairs, and meeting times for local clubs. However, the library's archivist argued that such documents can reveal how people actually experienced daily life in a community. A formal city report might mention that a new road was built, but a newsletter might show how residents felt about the construction, which businesses were affected, and how children's walking routes changed. Volunteers scanned each issue, added dates and keywords, and uploaded the files to a searchable website. Teachers soon began using the collection for local history assignments, and longtime residents contributed additional materials. The project showed that historical value is not limited to famous speeches or government records; ordinary documents can help preserve a community's memory.

Which statement best expresses the central idea of the passage?

- A) Old newsletters are useful only when they describe famous public officials.
- B) A library digitization project showed that ordinary local documents can preserve important community history.
- C) City reports are more reliable than neighborhood newsletters because they are written formally.
- D) Volunteers should scan only documents that are already organized by professional historians.

According to the passage, what can newsletters provide that a formal city report might not?

- A) Information about how residents experienced local events

- B) Proof that government records should never be used
- C) Instructions for repairing roads without city workers
- D) A complete list of every business in the city

The hospital's volunteer desk began using color-coded badges to identify different roles. Blue badges were for volunteers who could guide visitors to patient rooms, green badges were for those trained to deliver flowers and cards, and yellow badges were for volunteers who could answer basic questions about parking and cafeteria hours. The badges did not give volunteers medical authority, but they helped visitors know whom to approach for specific kinds of help.

What is the main purpose of the color-coded badges?

- A) To help visitors identify which volunteers can assist with particular needs
- B) To allow volunteers to give medical advice to patients
- C) To replace hospital staff during busy visiting hours
- D) To prevent visitors from asking questions inside the hospital

When Leo first joined the woodworking class, he rushed to finish every project. His first shelf looked complete from a distance, but it wobbled because he had measured one side incorrectly. The instructor asked him to rebuild only that section, not the entire shelf. As Leo worked more slowly, he realized that careful measuring was not a delay in the process; it was part of the process.

What can reasonably be inferred about Leo?

- A) He learns that accuracy matters more than simply finishing quickly.
- B) He decides that woodworking projects should never be revised.
- C) He already knew how to build shelves before joining the class.
- D) He believes measuring is unnecessary if a project looks complete.

A community seed library allows residents to borrow seeds for vegetables, herbs, and flowers. After growing the plants, participants are encouraged to save seeds from successful crops and return some to the library. The program teaches gardening skills, but it also helps preserve plant varieties that grow well in local soil and weather. Supporters say the value of the program is not only in the seeds themselves but also in the knowledge shared among neighbors.

Which statement best states the author's claim?

- A) A seed library can support both gardening education and local plant preservation.
- B) Residents should grow only flowers and avoid vegetables.
- C) Seed libraries are useful only when professional farmers manage them.
- D) Gardening programs should focus mainly on selling plants to residents.

A restaurant began placing a short note at the top of each online order ticket that identified food allergies reported by the customer. The note did not replace the kitchen's usual safety checks, but it made important information visible earlier in the preparation process. Cooks said the change helped them pause before adding sauces or toppings that might contain allergens.

What relationship does the passage establish between the allergy note and the kitchen's usual safety checks?

- A) The allergy note replaces the usual safety checks entirely.
- B) The allergy note provides an additional reminder before the usual checks are completed.
- C) The usual safety checks are no longer needed when customers order online.
- D) The allergy note is used only after the food has already been served.

Prompt:

Read the two passages and answer the question.

Passage 1:

Schools should teach students how to evaluate online information. Students encounter articles, videos, advertisements, and opinion posts every day, and they need strategies for identifying credible sources. A short unit on digital evaluation could help students avoid sharing false or misleading information.

Passage 2:

Teaching digital evaluation is important, but a short unit is not enough. Online platforms and misinformation techniques change quickly, so students need repeated practice across several courses. Evaluating sources should become a habit, not a lesson students complete once and forget.

How does Passage 2 respond to Passage 1?

- A) Passage 2 agrees that digital evaluation matters but argues that students need repeated practice rather than a single short unit.
- B) Passage 2 argues that students should stop using online sources for schoolwork.

- C) Passage 2 claims that online misinformation is no longer a problem for students.
- D) Passage 2 suggests that only teachers, not students, need to evaluate sources.

The article about neighborhood noise does not argue that all sounds should be eliminated. Instead, it distinguishes between ordinary city sounds and avoidable noise that affects sleep, concentration, and health. The author supports quieter construction hours, better mufflers on city vehicles, and clearer rules for late-night outdoor events. The goal is not silence, the author explains, but a more reasonable balance between activity and rest.

Which statement best summarizes the passage?

- A) The article argues for reducing unnecessary noise while recognizing that cities cannot be completely silent.
- B) The article claims that all city sounds should be banned at night and during the day.
- C) The article focuses mainly on the history of construction equipment.
- D) The article suggests that residents should avoid living in neighborhoods with outdoor events.

The memoir describes the author's grandmother making soup without a written recipe. She tasted the broth, added salt "until the pot remembered the sea," and adjusted the heat by listening to the lid rattle. The description suggests that the grandmother's cooking depended not on exact measurements but on memory, attention, and experience.

What effect does the phrase "until the pot remembered the sea" most likely create?

- A) It suggests that the grandmother uses sensory judgment rooted in experience.
- B) It shows that the grandmother once worked as a scientist studying oceans.
- C) It proves that the soup contains too much salt to eat safely.
- D) It makes the cooking process seem careless and random.

A college writing instructor asks students to keep a revision log for each essay. In the log, students list the changes they made and explain why they made them. The instructor says the log helps students recognize revision as decision-making rather than simple error correction. Students often discover that reorganizing a paragraph or adding evidence can matter as much as fixing punctuation.

Which sentence best states the instructor's point?

- A) Revision involves making thoughtful choices about meaning, structure, and support.
- B) Students should focus only on punctuation when revising essays.
- C) A revision log is useful only for students who write short essays.
- D) Instructors should correct every sentence before students revise.

The training manual tells lifeguards to scan the entire pool area in a repeated pattern rather than watch only the deepest section. A swimmer in trouble may not call out or wave dramatically; the signs can be subtle, such as a head low in the water or repeated attempts to roll onto the back. By using a regular scanning pattern, lifeguards are less likely to overlook a quiet emergency.

Why does the manual recommend a repeated scanning pattern?

- A) To help lifeguards notice subtle signs of trouble throughout the pool
- B) To make swimmers stay only in the deepest section
- C) To reduce the number of lifeguards needed at the pool
- D) To encourage swimmers to call out more loudly

The report on school lunch waste notes that students throw away unopened milk cartons, whole pieces of fruit, and packaged snacks. Rather than blaming students alone, the report examines serving sizes, meal schedules, and whether students have enough time to eat. It recommends share tables for unopened items, better communication about menu choices, and lunch periods long enough for students to finish their meals.

What is the author's purpose in discussing several causes of lunch waste?

- A) To show that reducing waste requires looking at the whole meal system
- B) To prove that students should not be allowed to choose their lunches
- C) To argue that schools should stop serving milk and fruit
- D) To explain why packaged snacks are always the healthiest option

Her supervisor explained that a careful receptionist does not need to know every answer; she needs to know how to find the correct person or resource. Amira began keeping a directory of departments, extension numbers, and common procedures beside her phone.

What lesson does Amira learn?

- A) Accuracy and knowing where to find information are more important than guessing quickly.
- B) Receptionists should answer only calls from people they already know.
- C) A directory is useful only when callers ask about office furniture.
- D) Guessing is the fastest way to build trust with callers.

TSIA2-ES5-001

Section: Essay

Type: essay

Prompt:

Some people believe that students should be allowed to use artificial intelligence tools for brainstorming, outlining, or checking grammar as long as they do not submit AI-generated work as their own. Others argue that using these tools too often may weaken students' ability to think independently and develop original ideas. Schools and colleges must decide how to teach responsible use of new technology while protecting academic honesty.

Assignment:

Write an essay of 300–600 words in which you develop your point of view on the issue presented in the passage. Support your position with reasoning and examples from your reading, studies, experience, or observations.

Model Guidance:

A strong response should clearly state a position on how students should be allowed to use artificial intelligence tools in school. The essay should maintain focus, organize ideas logically, and support the position with specific reasons and examples. Strong responses may consider both the benefits of technology and the risks to independent thinking or academic honesty. The writing should use varied sentence structure, demonstrate control of Standard English conventions, and show thoughtful reasoning.

Rubric:

Score 8: The essay presents a clear, insightful position; develops ideas thoroughly with specific and persuasive examples; is logically organized; uses precise language and varied sentence structure; and shows strong control of Standard English conventions.

Score 7: The essay presents a clear position; develops ideas effectively with relevant support; is well organized; uses appropriate language; and contains only minor errors.

Score 6: The essay presents a reasonable position; develops ideas adequately; has a clear structure; shows general language control; and may include some errors that do not interfere with meaning.

Score 5: The essay presents a position but may support it unevenly; organization is present but basic; language control is adequate; and errors may occasionally distract the reader.

Score 4: The essay shows a limited or unclear position; development is thin, general, or repetitive; organization may be weak; and errors may interfere with meaning.

Score 3: The essay attempts to address the issue but has minimal support, weak organization, and frequent language errors.

Score 2: The essay is seriously underdeveloped, poorly organized, or difficult to understand because of major errors.

Score 1: The essay shows little ability to develop a response and may be extremely brief, confusing, or mostly unrelated.

Score 0: blank, off-topic, too short, incoherent, or non-English response

PART B — ANSWER KEY + EXPLANATIONS

TSIA2-E5-001 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: A library digitization project showed that ordinary local documents can preserve important community history. — Explanation: The passage explains that neighborhood newsletters, although ordinary, can reveal daily life and preserve community memory.

TSIA2-E5-002 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Information about how residents experienced local events — Explanation: The passage contrasts formal city reports with newsletters that reveal residents’ feelings and daily experiences.

TSIA2-E5-003 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: common or not especially remarkable — Explanation: In context, “ordinary” describes newsletters that seem common but still have historical value.

TSIA2-E5-004 — Correct: C — Correct Answer: Teachers used the collection, and residents contributed more materials. — Explanation: This detail shows that the digitized collection became useful for education and encouraged community participation.

TSIA2-E5-005 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: To help visitors identify which volunteers can assist with particular needs — Explanation: The badges show which volunteers can guide visitors, deliver items, or answer basic questions.

TSIA2-E5-006 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: He learns that accuracy matters more than simply finishing quickly. — Explanation: Leo’s wobbly shelf teaches him that careful measuring is an essential part of the process.

TSIA2-E5-007 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: A seed library can support both gardening education and local plant preservation. — Explanation: The passage states that seed libraries teach gardening skills and help preserve locally successful plant varieties.

TSIA2-E5-008 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The allergy note provides an additional reminder before the usual checks are completed. — Explanation: The passage explains that the note does not replace normal safety checks but makes allergy information visible earlier.

TSIA2-E5-009 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Passage 2 agrees that digital evaluation matters but argues that students need repeated practice rather than a single short unit. — Explanation:

Passage 2 accepts the importance of digital evaluation but says it should be practiced across several courses.

TSIA2-E5-010 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: The article argues for reducing unnecessary noise while recognizing that cities cannot be completely silent. — Explanation: The passage distinguishes ordinary city sounds from avoidable noise and argues for balance rather than silence.

TSIA2-E5-011 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: It suggests that the grandmother uses sensory judgment rooted in experience. — Explanation: The phrase shows that the grandmother cooks by taste, memory, and attention rather than exact measurements.

TSIA2-E5-012 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Revision involves making thoughtful choices about meaning, structure, and support. — Explanation: The instructor views revision as decision-making, including reorganizing paragraphs and adding evidence.

TSIA2-E5-013 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: To help lifeguards notice subtle signs of trouble throughout the pool — Explanation: A repeated scanning pattern helps lifeguards see quiet emergencies that may not be obvious.

TSIA2-E5-014 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: To show that reducing waste requires looking at the whole meal system — Explanation: The report examines serving sizes, schedules, time to eat, and share tables, showing that waste has several causes.

TSIA2-E5-015 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Accuracy and knowing where to find information are more important than guessing quickly. — Explanation: Amira learns that a receptionist should locate the correct person or resource rather than guess.

TSIA2-E5-016 — Correct: C — Correct Answer: Sentence 6 — Explanation: Sentence 6 discusses weekend movie watching and does not support the argument for a shared equipment checkout system.

TSIA2-E5-017 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Training could show students how to attach a microphone, adjust a tripod, and store batteries safely. — Explanation: This sentence gives specific examples of how training would help students handle equipment responsibly.

TSIA2-E5-018 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: To prevent loss or damage, — Explanation: This transition introduces the purpose of the checkout agreement and return deadline.

TSIA2-E5-019 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: A shared equipment system would reduce unnecessary purchases while helping students produce stronger class projects. — Explanation: This sentence is clear, concise, and directly states the benefit of the proposal.

TSIA2-E5-020 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The instructor gave us a checklist that helped us prepare for the oral presentation. — Explanation: This revision avoids the comma splice and clearly connects the checklist to its purpose.

TSIA2-E5-021 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: The counselor said, “Submit the form by Friday if you want it reviewed before registration.” — Explanation: This sentence correctly uses a comma before the quotation, capitalizes the quoted sentence, and places the period inside the quotation marks.

TSIA2-E5-022 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: consequently — Explanation: The second clause describes the result of the inconsistent results.

TSIA2-E5-023 — Correct: C — Correct Answer: As Malik ran through the airport, he had difficulty hearing the boarding announcement. — Explanation: This revision corrects the misplaced modifier by clearly showing that Malik was running.

TSIA2-E5-024 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The results of the survey show that most students prefer morning workshops. — Explanation: The plural subject “results” requires the plural verb “show.”

TSIA2-E5-025 — Correct: B — Correct Answer: The city opened a new recycling center where residents can drop off cardboard, glass, and old electronics. — Explanation: This option combines the sentences clearly and avoids a comma splice.

TSIA2-E5-026 — Correct: A — Correct Answer: Therefore, a backstage tour can show students that theater offers many ways to participate. — Explanation: This conclusion follows from the paragraph’s discussion of backstage roles.
